COGNITIVE PHILOLOGY

"The point is not the text, but the mind that made it."

Cognitive Philology is a peer-reviewed, open access journal that aims to foster communication between literary, textual, philological disciplines on the one hand and researchers across the whole range of the cognitive, evolutionary, ecological and human sciences on the other.

Cognitive Philology is the international continuation of the Italian Rivista di Filologia Cognitiva.

VOL 9 (2016)

TABLE OF CONTENTS

ARTICLES
Memoria, affinità e immaginazione: l'intelligenza delle emozioni nella retorica antica
Francesca Romana Nocchi

ISBN 2035-391X